LAFCU's Listen & Learn Program helps local kids learn about money, teaches magic of math

Credit union partners with Perry Elementary School for event featuring reading, magician and 340 donated books for students

LANSING, Mich. — LAFCU recently took its Listen & Learn Program to Perry Elementary School. The event coincided with the school's Pajama Day and featured a magician and a book intended to help young children build confidence in math and learn more about money.

"This event is a great example of how to make learning fun and teach the younger generation the importance of money," said Kelli officer and chief diversity officer. "LAFCU's Listen & Learn Program offers community outreach, but also allows our team to get in front of kids, encourage them to read and incorporate important financial principles, but in a fun and engaging way."

To encourage reading LAFCU donated 340 copies of the book, "Owl and Otter and the Big Yard Sale," written by Andrea Mills.

Illustrated by Julia Seal and published by DK, the book invites readers to join the fun and learn about addition and counting money. It also presents the ideas of supply and demand and how to earn and save money.
